HUMAN ERROR: STC 17

Apologies to everyone who had trouble finding copies of STC no.17 last month. Distribution problems caused that particular issue to go on sale a few days later than normal.

Thanks to all those Boomers - or their 'minders' - that called the STC offices to find out where STC 17 was. It was good to hear than each new issue of Britian's Only Official Sega Comic is such an eagerly-awaited event.

Hopefully you all managed to get hold of issue 17 eventually. If you didn't keep an eye open for the new STC Back Issue Service, starting soon!

"Why Haven't You Printed My Letter?"

HOW TO SEE YOUR NAME IN STC

Hundreds of letters and drawings arrive in the STC office every week. Only a select few get chosen to appear in Speedlines. Why?

Well, space is the main problem - we just don't have room to print all your missives in each issue. However, there is another factor behind what gets chosen - quality. The sad fact is a small number of letters and drawings just aren't good enough to appear in STC.

How do you make sure your work gets a better chance of getting selected? Follow these simple guidelines for a chance at fame, fortune and your name in STC!

LETTERS

1. Keep your letters short and to the point.
2. Write neatly and clearly.
3. Include your name and full address (if you don't we can't send you a prize!).

DRAWINGS

1. Draw in ink on white paper.
2. Avoid using pencil or crayon - our printers have a problem photographing them.
3. Write your name and address clearly on the back of each picture you send.
4. Be original! Don't just copy pictures out of the comic - try to come up with your own ideas. Original drawings get noticed!

GENERAL

1. We cannot return drawings and photographs unless your send a stamped, self-addressed envelope.
2. Write your name and address on the back of your photographs - they sometimes get separated from your letters.
3. Don't challenge us not to print your letter - because we probably won't!

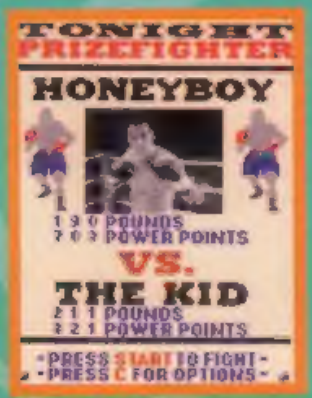
PRIZEFIGHTER

game type: SPORTS
1 PLAYER

MCD

Prepare to pump those muscles for Prizefighter is the latest hot title to hit the Mega CD. It enables you to take on some of the world's meanest fighters, who in turn, try their best to rearrange your features. Prizefighter is no more computer-style boxing game. You get the opportunity to box with real professionals.

The introduction is amazing as the controller quits the changing room to face the hordes of press and public. There are ten boxers to choose from, but you have to earn the right to choose the best seven by winning several bouts. The selection includes: Mega Joe, T Rex, or Honeybee, to compete against The Kid. You can set your power points between your left and right hands or your stamina.



As this game contains actual film footage, you really feel as if you are there as you make your entrance into the arena. The introductions are made in the glare of the ring and the whole game is filmed from the first person perspective, featuring actors and an audience.

During the fight, your opponent dances mischievously around you, although you can block, punch, or slip away from his attacks. It takes a while to time your punches just so, but when at last you have perfected your timing, there is unadulterated pleasure in watching your opponent fly backwards in slow motion and collapse in a heap on the canvas. There are also some nice touches with the referee describing the fighters as "...fiercer than a thermo-nuclear war"!

Overall, Prizefighter is a good start to sports games appearing on the Mega CD, and it's really is like being there. - VL

They say imitation is the greatest form of flattery. I say it sucks. It's only worth imitating something if you can deliver a lookalike that's just as much fun as the original, or at least mutate it into something else of moderate interest. Let's put it this way: Wiz 'n' Liz will look very familiar to readers of Sonic The Comic.

You need more? Imagine the first Sonic game - only without the Spiked One, Robotnik, the coins, and the addictive action. Are you beginning to get the picture? Now replace pot bip hog with a witless wizard, but keep the speedy sprites and rolling horizontal runways, and pepper the playing field with cute Wabbits that transform into letters, fruits and bonus items when you run over them. For good measure, throw in a few lame end-of-level bosses (because that's what games like this have, right!), and Eureka - you have Wiz 'n' Liz, or at least a cartridge that's painfully similar.

OK. It's not all bad. There's no denying that this is a colourful looking slice of arcadia. There's a lot of detail in the backdrops and the opening credits are very nicely done. But neat graphics do not a good cart make.

After fifteen minutes of struggling to maintain an interest in this nonsense, I just wanted to plug in the game that clearly inspired it and remind myself exactly how fine and fresh that first Sonic adventure was. Alternatively, I might dig out and dust down Defender. Now that's what you call a game. - SM.

This game delivers a no-frills, fast and furious dose of soccer action. Its arcade style soccer gameplay is highly addictive, even if its graphics and sound are not exactly [illegible] Premier League. You look straight down onto the smooth scrolling pitch and can choose to battle it out in cups, leagues or international one tournaments.

Sensible Soccer is designed to make passing and dribbling easy. Even a beginner can imitate one of Gazza's famed [illegible]. Its speed is a big point and in a single game there is hardly time to catch your breath. What it lacks visually it makes up for in raw energy and fun.

LIVE FROM LAS VEGAS!

Sega shines at the Big Game show

Dateline: Las Vegas, January 1994. This report of the 1994 Winter Consumer Electronics Show comes to you from the gaming capital of the world, where some of the latest developments in the world of video gaming were unveiled. STC's own exhibition was there.

Sega put on a big display befitting a company who not only took on the mighty Nintendo, who's number one in the US market, but is beating them on the 16-bit console front. There were many new arcade titles as well as a number of new Mega CD games, see below for details, while the much anticipated 32-bit console code-named Saturn was kept behind the scenes and shown in its recompiled form for a select few. One new console that was revealed to the public was the amazing new CDX or Mini-Mega (see seperate item in this News Zone).

On the coin-op arcade front, four Sega Virtua Arcade machines were on show, projected in massive proportion screens and showing the new Virtua Formula game. The ever popular new arcade game Virtua Fighters was also there, and was packed out for most of the time!

MEGA CD

Much activity is currently taking place around the Mega CD. The goodies on display included:

Dracula Unleashed (featuring great quality video clips), Soulstar from Core Design (a classic 3D shooter), Jurassic Park (some good video clips, but it looked quite Double Switch (another Night Trap-style game, but with much more depth), Battlecorps (a Battlezone-type game where you control a tank in a 3D landscape) from Core Design was in early development. Cliffhanger from Sony featured film clips, incredible skateboarding sequences, but dull gameplay.

MEGA DRIVE

The Edge is a new modem-type peripheral that will allow two Mega Drives to be connected via the telephone. Players can not only battle each other head to head, but they also have the ability to talk to each other at the same time. It comes from AT&T, the huge US telephone company, and should be available in the States this summer for around $100. At present, there are no plans to release it in Europe. A big incentive for America is that unlike Britain, most local calls are free.

Not surprisingly, one of the most popular areas at the show was the Sonic The Hedgehog 3 stand. Game players mobbed this stand for a chance to have their first hands-on experience of Sonic's newest adventure. A bit very impressed.

One of the strangest Mega Drive games on display was Barney the Dino. Barney is a purple Dinosaur who appears in his very own popular straightforward and is pitched at the very young.

Other Mega Drive goodies on show featured: King of the Monsters 2 from Takara, Pebbl Fuzz 2, and Joe and Mac. Tecmo had two sports games, Superbowl and Super NBA Basketball, which looked average.

Sunsoft had a platform game called Brutal, Pinball Dreams (converted from the Amiga), and a Micro Machines racing game. For the fans there was Lunar Silver Star from Working Designs, which looked pretty basic, but had plenty of depth and challenge for those long winter nights!

Star Trek: The Next Generation for the Mega Drive looked a pretty average RPG, as did Shadowrun. World Heroes, from the Neo Geo arcade game, looked OK, but was quite a slow player. Sub-terranean, a stunning-looking game, was similar in the genre with Thunderhawk, from the C64 and Spectrum era.

Tengen is cracking on with its Mega Drive line-up for 1994 and was showing Awesome Baby Pacman (a platform game with almost continuous speech), Interplanetary Liberals (interesting characters, but plays like most platform games), and Gridsbusterman (a great little shooter). Fans of Lemmings then can get the game of the title quite soon. It has some novel touches with 3D scrolling landscape and platform sequences.

Tecmo was working away on Tecmo the average looking platformer, and PM had two RPG games, Might and Magic Gate of the Beholder.

Telenash is coming out of its "quiet" period with some great-looking products. Pink Panther looks just like the cartoon series but is pitched firmly at the younger player, while Galaxian 3: Tunnelin is a stunning game with the most incredible digitised speech and music that rates among the best ever heard as a game!

GAME GEAR

There was little to offer in the way of surprises in this category, the only points of interest were Donald Duck in Deep Duck Trouble (another great platformer), Gerstach Golf, and some U.S. sports games of limited interest to Europe.

And so we end the Winter CES. The whole circus moves onto Chicago in the summer, when even more exciting [illegible] will be revealed. Stick your heads until then.

NEW SEGA 16-BIT PORTABLE

Mega Drive and Mega CD in amazing mini-unit

[illegible] known in America as the Sega Genesis CDX. Over here it will be called the Sega Multi-Mega. Whatever you call it, it's the dream new addition to Sega's console range. A Mega Drive and Mega CD packed into a unit not much bigger than a portable audio CD player.

Stick in a couple of AA batteries and it becomes an audio CD player, giving you music wherever you go. Plug in an AC adaptor, connect it to a TV, plug in a joypad and you've got a console that will play any Mega CD game from its disc compartment. Or simply play any Mega Drive game through its built-in cartridge port.

Weighing in at [illegible] lbs, measuring 7.9" wide, 5.9" deep and 1.8" high, the Multi-Mega will come bundled with Sega's 6-button joypad, an AC adaptor and a pack of Mega CD games. The games are likely to be Sonic CD and Ecco CD, although plans have not been finalised as of going to press. Official release date for the UK is scheduled to be April this year.

Sounds too good to be true? Well, before you rush out and order a Multi-Mega, bear in mind that it will cost around £350 and that it will initially only be imported quantities are available.

That aside, the Multi-Mega is an extremely impressive, extremely cool piece of kit. We'll bring you more news as we get it.

Aladdin SPECIAL

The most packed Mega Drive graphics of all time appeared in the Manchester Aladdin. EPC's game guru, David Gibbon gobbles his sword and turns about not to bring you the complete solution.

LEVEL 1

Make sure you earn the most from the apples

Walk right but make sure you jump over the hot coals. Stand on the frame's back and the enemy then continue right. Climb up the rope, jump off and touch the small lamp to kill the baddies then go left until you reach a ledge. Hop onto the single platform with the guy gem and hop off to the left. Climb the rope, walk right and fall off the edge of the platform collecting the apples. Walk up the steps then continue right to the end. Climb the rope then grab the wooden pole. Continue right to the edge, hop across the two single platforms and head right. Climb the rope, turn right, fall to the bottom then continue right, jump onto the flag poles and land to the right. Walk right to finish.

Go left to pick up some apples then go right. When you come to a dead end climb onto the screen and hop across the palm trees to the left. Grab the vine at the top then to right. Walk down into the stone cave, head up, go up, be shoot at the pointy. Go up, hop across two palm trees. Continue right at the end and go left, jump up the stone platforms to collect the first Scarab then head right. Run across the sand, then go up right, down and left to collect the next Scarab. Head right to the end then jump up further stone platforms to collect the final Scarab.

Run right, jump up left onto a flag pole and collect the first flute. Fall down, grab hold of the rope and continue right. Once on the ground go left to pick up the second flute. Grab hold of the rope, then turn right to collect the third flute. Fall to the ground and repeat this procedure with each of the three snake charmer's pipes. Continue heading right, then fly up using the rope, dodge apples at the knife thrower below you, then jump up onto the rope. Climb up, then go left to find the fourth flute. Continue left, fall down using the wooden pole, then jump up using the flag pole. Continue up, then head right using the washing lines until you meet a small knife-throwing man.

Keep hitting the man with your sword at the end of the right hand side of the screen. When he's dead, walk left, then back to collect the final flute. Turn left, then grab hold of the rope. Head right to meet the real boss. Stand as shown in the screenshot and each time he throws a barrel, jump up and throw an apple at him. Repeat this to complete the level.

LEVEL 8

Jump onto the genie head and bounce right. Grab hold of the heads, go right to the end, then jump down onto a hand. Jump right onto a moving hand, jump onto another hand, then up onto a gold hand. Go right and stand next to an arrow pointing upwards. You should now be jumping in the air. Climb up the moving hands, then grab hold of the blue heads. Go right and fall onto an orange cushion. Now, jump up and grab into a balloon. Keep jumping from balloon to balloon heading right. When you reach the end, land on a 'rest' cushion. Go right and jump onto the big blue hands. Head down past the letter S, then go right, jumping across the genie heads. Land on a 'rest' cushion and go down, right and onto a moving hand. Jump off two more flicking hands and grab hold of the blue heads. Head right across the hands, then jump up into the blue train. Keep going right across further hands and enter the genie's mouth to finish.

LEVEL 9

Walk left across the flamingos and stones to reach the magic carpet. Use your sword constantly whenever you're on the carpet to get rid of those pesky parrots. Now, go right and climb up the gold rope. When you reach the top, go left and onto the carpet. Head right and once you have landed, get off the carpet. Again, once you're on the ground, jump off across the platforms. Now jump up and grab hold of the top rail. Go right, and when you see the monkey's cage, jump up to release him. Continue right, down the rope, left, down the black hole and right to end.

Buy as many lives as you can at the pedlars stalls. Remember you need five gems for each additional life.

The blue genie tokens offer you a chance on the fruit machine-type game at the end of a level. The more you collect, the more tries you can have.

Always touch the blue vases, so that if you die you can re-start from the same point.

Remember that the blue hearts give you extra energy. There are loads of them lying around the game, so keep a look out.

Sonic the Show-off

Dear STC,

I was going to write to complain about someone . . . Sonic! As Sonic is a blue streak of show-off, I was getting sick and tired of seeing him a-l-l the time. I would just like to say that I for one am glad that you did something about Sonic getting all the attention, now that Tails has his own comic strip.

Richard Andrews, Wilnecote, Staffs.
MD owner.
Sonic Water Fun Game Winner.

Phew, I'm glad you were going to write and complain. Just think what might have happened if you actually were bold enough to speak up!

Special Player

Dear STC,

I like your comic and I also loved the Sonic the Hedgehog 2 game. I played it all the time on my Sega MD. I go to a special school and your comic helps my reading.

Tommy Clifford, Hayes, Middlesex.
MD owner.
Sonic Water Fun Game Winner.

Thanks, Tommy. Hope you have as much fun with Sonic 3 - not to mention future issues of STC!

Tails 'Terrorist'

Dear STC,

So, you've done something right for once and satisfied the wishes of the silent majority. I'm referring to the Tails strip, which my friends and I are very pleased about, but are disappointed that it's only four pages long. Tails deserves a strip the same size (if not bigger), than Sonic's. If that really wasn't possible, at least Tails could've been given an average five pages. If you think that you can keep the country's many Tails fans quiet by giving their favourite character the smallest strip in STC, you've heading for trouble. Unless you increase the pages of the Tails strip, I shall personally come to the office and burn it to the ground with my own copy of issue one. Take the hint?

Sarah Rose, Boothstown, Manchester.
MD owner.
Sonic Water Fun Game Winner.

Right on, Sarah. But if you do that you'll also destroy all the new Tails stories we've got coming up! Now what do you really want, more Tails in STC or a lot of slightly charred humes? Don't think too long about it.

When Will I Be Famous?

Dear STC,

I'm not one to complain, but I've written in three times and you haven't even printed one of my letters yet. Some people just put: "Is this the shortest letter you've ever had", and you bother to print it, while others put a lot of effort in. So, please could you print this or I'll scream.

David Brown, Surbiton, Surrey. MD owner.
Sonic Water Fun Game Winner.

Nothing personal, David. STC gets hundreds of letters every week, if we printed each one, we'd have no room to print anything else. Now keep quiet, there's a lot a lazy humes trying to sleep round here!
